

Paid Start-up and/or Installation Support

Start-up Support

- Machinery installation and electrical connections are performed by the buyer.
- PSI reviews/checks the completed mechanical installation and wiring connections
- PSI is present in a consultative role to support the start-up of the equipment (i.e., PSI will not turn wrenches unless correcting a PSI-related issue at start-up).
- PSI will provide operator training as needed for correct equipment operation and maintenance.
- If the line is not ready for PSI start-up support upon arrival at the plant (or that day), the PSI technician will return to PSI. Time and expenses for the trip will be billed to the buyer, and another installation date will be set.
- Buyer to confirm acceptance of the role of the PSI technician as described above.
- Service Rate Schedule is available upon request.

Simple Installation

- PSI will work with the buyer's maintenance team to mount the equipment and oversee the interconnecting wiring.
 - PSI service technicians are responsible for PSI-supplied equipment only. They are not licensed or insured to make connections to customer-supplied wiring.
 - If the buyer's maintenance team (or third-party contractors) will not perform hands-on installation with the PSI technician, PSI must be advised before any agreement is made for the installation work. Service Rate fees are per technician.
- The line must be ready for equipment mounting when the PSI technician arrives.
 - PSI does not remove existing equipment or wiring from the line.
- The buyer is responsible for delivering the PSI equipment to the installation point as well as providing necessary hoists, tow motors, etc, and related operators for handling.
- If the line is not ready for PSI equipment installation upon arrival at the plant (or that day), the PSI technician will return to PSI. Time and expenses for the trip will be billed to the buyer, and another installation date will be set.
- Buyer to confirm acceptance of the role of the PSI technician as described above.
- Service Rate Schedule is available upon request.
